3 PROPOSAL SPECIFICATION

3.1 Scope of Work

The National Integrated Cyber Infrastructure System (NICIS) is hosting the CHPC Annual National Conference in December 2023. The conference will host parallel tracks for Centre for High Performance Computing (CHPC), South African National Research Network (SANReN), and Data Intensive Research Initiative of South Africa (DIRISA) related presentations, workshops, and student competitions.

SANReN will host the annual Cyber Security Challenge (CSC) competition for tertiary students in the information security space as a parallel event to the 2023 CHPC Annual National Conference. During the SANReN CSC competition students are required to solve ethical hacking challenges in a competitive and formal environment. Student challenges are presented in a structured and enclosed environment commonly known as a Capture the Flag (CTF) event. A typical and expected CTF event includes a variety of challenges from different disciplines within the cyber security domain. More information regarding the SANReN CSC competition can be found at <https://csc.ac.za/>.

Proposals are hereby invited for the supply of jeopardy style, ethical hacking challenges for an internally managed CTFd platform. CTFd (<https://ctfd.io/>) is an open source but customisable CTF framework. Challenges – inclusive of challenge solutions – are required for the final of the SANReN Cyber Security Challenge 2023 as well as for two (2) qualification rounds. Thus, challenges must be provided for three (3) events, inclusive of challenge solutions. The supplied challenges must cover all the following categories:

- Web Exploitation
- Cryptography
- Forensics
- Reverse Engineering
- Open-source Intelligence (OSINT)
- Mobile Applications
- Binary Exploitation

The qualifier events may share the same set of forty (40) challenges with difficulty distribution as follows:

- 24 challenges of Easy difficulty
- 12 challenges of Medium difficulty
- 12 challenges of Hard difficulty

Final event will be held at the end of November or early December 2023 and must have twenty-four (24) challenges composed of the following difficulty levels:

- 12 challenges of Easy difficulty
- 6 challenges of Medium difficulty of which at least 4 challenges must be unique (bespoke).
- 6 challenges of Hard difficulty of which at least challenges must be unique (bespoke).

The Final must also have at least 2 warmup challenges to allow the participants to gain confidence and get familiar with the CTF platform.

Supplied challenges for both the final and qualifier (2) events must be accompanied with solutions. A solution for each challenge is defined as the answer and a step-by-step description to solve the challenge. Solutions must be provided in one of the following formats:

- Descriptive (PDF format or video) – detailing the steps to follow to solve the challenge.
- Interactive (Workshop hosted by the supplier prior to each event) – the supplier presents the solution to the challenges.

Each of the supplied challenges should be accompanied by a technical description (how to step-up the challenge – build instructions) and supporting items. Supporting items will be challenge dependent, but can include the following:

- Source code.
- Attachments (files, images, archives, packet captures, executables, etc.).
- Service containerised as a Docker image:
 - For example, challenges reachable via TCP only connections using tools like netcat or SSH.
 - For example, challenges served as websites and reachable via HTTP(s).

All the supplied challenges, for both the final and qualifier (2) events must be compatible with the internally managed CTFd platform. Compatibility with the internally managed CTFd platform is defined as the successful importing of the challenge without requiring any technical modification. For example, a technical modification can be described as the resizing of a supporting document to a size supported by CTFd. Deployment of additional services, such as a website, according to the received Docker image and installation instructions are not considered a technical modification.

Additional requirements:

- The proposal must present the format (e.g., JSON, text file, ZIP archive, etc.) in which the challenges will be provided and clearly state how supporting items will be delivered.
- The proposal must include the criterion used to determine the difficulty level of the challenges. The criteria used to classify each difficulty level (Easy, Medium, Hard) must be stipulated.
- The supplied challenges for both the final and qualifier (2) events must support automated marking. Thus, no manual review or objective evaluation of the submitted solution to a challenge must be required and the solution can instantly be marked as correct or incorrect.
- Event challenges and solutions for each of the three events must be submitted to the organisers at least 3 weeks prior to the start of any event and must be finalised two (2) weeks prior to the start of the event.
- The category, scope and availability of possible challenges should be presented (a summary or explanation of breadth and scope of available challenges).
- The solutions of the challenges must not be available on the Internet.

- Sample challenges and solutions (2 x hard, 2 x medium, 2 x easy) must be supplied along with the bid. Each sample challenge must be accompanied with a solution (answer and step-by-step description).

All proposals are to be submitted in a format specified in this enquiry (if applicable). However, tenderers are welcome to submit additional / alternative proposals over and above the originally specified format.
