SECTION A – TECHNICAL INFORMATION

1 INTRODUCTION

The Council for Scientific and Industrial Research (CSIR) is one of the leading scientific research and technology development organisations in Africa. In partnership with national and international research and technology institutions, CSIR undertakes directed and multidisciplinary research and technology innovation that contributes to the improvement of the quality of life of South Africans. The CSIR's main site is in Pretoria while it is represented in other provinces of South Africa through regional offices.

2 BACKGROUND

The CSIR has been contracted by the SANDF to provide specialist scientific and engineering support services in support of Capability Management and Force Preparation in the SA Army. Essentially background studies and operational research need to be conducted as input and guidance to Capability Management processes in order to determine force design and associated force structures.

The recently promulgated Defence Review 2015 directs the DoD to be prepared to react to multiple features, including a situation of domestic civil disorder, and be able to defend the country from irregular threats that may manifest by nature of revolutionary insurgencies, terrorist attacks or the general threat to the security of critical infrastructures within and outside the borders of the republic. In view of the above, the SANDF might be required to provide assistance and prepare for a scenario of mass action in the Republic of South Africa.

3 INVITATION FOR PROPOSAL

Proposals are hereby invited for the supply of Operational Research on the SA Army's contingencies, concepts and associated force design and force structure for mass actions in South Africa to the CSIR's.
